

Fellow racers,

We are waiting for the government announcement this Tuesday to see if we can race next week. There has been some chatter about removing or at least easing some restrictions on sporting events so we hope to be able to get the going soon. In the mean time we need to stay put and keep following the regulations as put on us by Bonnie.

As you all know by now we have track supervision during the weekend and I hope you all agree with me that the open practice days are improving. There is still some road to cover but we are going the right direction. The last few weekends have been very busy at the track. We hit the limit of 50 people at the track a few times and unfortunately had to disappoint some as we where "booked up".

What really disappoints me is that some think it's not needed to take a few seconds and cancel their T&T booking if they can't make it to the track. By not cancelling this person is potentially denying another member to enjoy the track at the busy days. I have no patience for that. It's rude and disrespectful towards the other members. The track supervisor will keep track of no shows who didn't cancel. I will receive the names and I will block them from Signup so no days can be booked in advance and these members can only attend a T&T if there are spots left.

Second, it seems like some still don't understand the rule that a person can't book more than 1 weekend day at the time. Currently I only remove one day if a person get caught booking multiple days. As this doesn't seem to work I have no choice than to simply remove all the bookings of the person who booked multiple days. It's up to that person to re-book test and tune if there are still spots available.

I am very sorry to keep on sending these kinds of e-mails but I get calls almost daily from members to inform me how they feel about other members not following some very simple rules. As you might understand I am getting very tired of this. Please keep it together. There is light at the end of the tunnel and we don't have to bother you guys anymore with this.

Hope to see you all soon again at the track!
